DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

This claim is now a "mixture"; a mixture with what? A mixture requires two ingredients, but only one is set forth.

Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The structural formula were omitted from all the new clean copies of the claims.

Claims 1 and 3-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for most R1 choices, does not reasonably provide enablement for R1 = haloalkyl. The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make the invention commensurate in scope with these claims.

Art Unit: 1624

The halo itself is a leaving group which will prevent synthesis as indicated. Thus, suppose R1 were CH<sub>2</sub>I, and the claim 7 process were done with e.g. X=I, which is one of the preferred X choices. The formula II compound would thus be CH<sub>2</sub>I<sub>2</sub>. That compound will obviously not give the desired -CH<sub>2</sub>I derivative, but will instead give the dimer linked by methylene.

The traverse is unpersuasive. Applicants state the examiner has not explained why this cannot be done without undue experimentation. The examiner has already explained that. The reaction, as written, will not work in the choice of R1 = haloalkyl, because the halo in that haloalkyl is itself a leaving group. Applicants point to the permissibility of "some experimentation", but do not explain what that experimentation might be to get around the problem. The examiner is not saying that undue experimentation will be needed to get the reaction to work. The examiner is saying that as written, it will produce the wrong product; it will give the dimer.

Next, applicants argue that even if this were an inoperative embodiment, that is not enough to show lack of enablement. But the cases cited are not like this one, where a specific member of a Markush group is asserted to be not operative. Thus in Dinh-Nguyen, the Court spoke of "possibly inoperative" embodiments, not the case here; the examiner is not saying that it is "possibly inoperative". In Angstadt, the Court said, "the claims do not cover them", meaning that the terms would not be interpreted as embracing the inoperative embodiment (specifically, that the catalyst in the claim wouldn't be understood to embrace certain unspecified catalysts which don't actually work). That is impossible to assert here because the haloalkyl is specifically recited.

Art Unit: 1624

When operativeness has been properly challenged, it is incumbent on applicant to limit the claims accordingly, cf. In re Harwood, 156 USPQ 673, In re Cook, 169 USPQ 298, In re Langer, 183 USPQ 288, In re Corkill, 226 USPQ 1005, 1009, and In re Rainier, 153 USPQ 802. MPEP 2164.08 states, "The Federal Circuit has repeatedly held that "the specification must teach those skilled in the art how to make and use the full scope of the claimed invention without undue experimentation'." In re Wright, 999 F.2d 1557, 1561, 27 USPQ2d 1510, 1513 (Fed. Cir. 1993)." The "full scope" means each member of a Markush group.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
